Face it: Tax Day is no one’s favorite time of year, but it’s a necessary evil if you want to be a productive member of society. Besides all the time you spend going through receipts and paperwork, you could end up with a tax bill instead of a refund, resulting in a major disappointment. Fortunately, a few helpful tax filing tips can make the process easy and save you some time and money.Organize Documents Before you file your taxes, gather all your important documents, like W-2s, receipts, 1099s, proof of investment income and anything else that could provide a deduction and impact how much you owe. As documents arrive in the mail — usually during the month of January — keep them in one central location so you can easily find them all when it’s time to do your taxes. Everyone knows April 15 is when taxes are due, but you may not realize you can file a six-month extension if you aren’t quite ready by this date. It beats rushing through your taxes and making mistakes. If you owe money, you still accrue penalties and interest on the money owed until you file and pay, so keep that in mind. E-FileSkip filling out the paper version of the official IRS forms by e-filing your taxes. Many trusted companies offer free federal filing, and these programs also help you check for errors and maximize your deductions. If you make less than a certain amount, the IRS even offers free e-filing software. See the IRS official site for more details. Opt for Direct Deposit If you’re one of the lucky ones receiving a refund, sign up for direct deposit. It’s free, and all you need to do is provide the IRS with your bank routing and account numbers. You get your refund much quicker than you would if you opted to receive a check in the mail, and there is less room for error. Double Check Everything It may seem time consuming, but double checking your tax forms for errors is always essential before submitting them. Errors on your return could cause costly delays if they aren’t corrected in advance. Consider using an e-file program that alerts you to potential errors. Lower Your Bill Before the Deadline If you know you’re going to owe some money, take some steps to lower your tax bill. As long as you complete these steps by the tax deadline day, you can contribute to an IRA, 401(k) or health savings account to accomplish this. Don’t Panic if You Lost Something Despite your best efforts to stay organized, it’s easy to lose a tax form when you receive it in January but don’t use it until April. It’s also possible for forms to get lost in the mail or never get mailed at all. If the worst happens, you can often go online to get the info from your bank, your investment firm or your employer. Alternatively, you can use form 4852 to estimate your wages and avoid paying costly penalties. Consider a CPA Most people balk at the idea of hiring an accountant to do their taxes, mostly because of the pretty hefty fees. However, if your taxes are complicated — maybe you own a business, you purchased a home or you have many deductions — that fee could lead to a bigger refund or decrease the amount you have to pay. Pay What You Owe ASAP Unfortunately, a refund isn’t in the cards for everyone. If you owe the IRS, pay them as soon as possible, even if you file an extension. The longer you let it go, the more penalties and interest add up to an even heftier tax bill. You can also consider setting up a payment plan if you can’t afford to pay it all right away. Learn About Earned Income Tax Credit People and families who earn what the IRS considers to be a “low or moderate income” may qualify for a free earned income tax credit. Approximately 20 percent of people who qualify don’t claim it, and that could leave a lot of money on the table if you’re one of them. Find out what it takes to qualify by visiting the IRS website. MORE FROM QUESTIONSANSWERED.NET If you can't type into a form field on a pdf, it may be due to a browser's default viewer for pdfs. Fillable forms require Adobe Acrobat or Acrobat Reader/Acrobat DC to fill them out online or on your computer. Many browsers use a different pdf viewer by default that doesn't support fillable form fields. If you are using Edge, downloading the pdf is your only option because the Edge browser does not support fillable pdf forms. Option 1: Download the PDF When you download the pdf, you will use your computer to view the file: Make sure Adobe Acrobat or Acrobat Reader/Acrobat DC is on your computer. Right click the pdf. Select Save Link As and choose the destination folder and filename for the pdf on your computer. Double-click/open the downloaded pdf. The file should open using Adobe Acrobat or Adobe Reader if these programs are on your computer. If the downloaded pdf file didn’t open correctly, you may need to change the default pdf viewer for the computer. If you are using Windows 10, do the following: Go to the Control Panel > select Default Programs > select Set Associations Select .pdf. Click Change program button. Select Adobe Acrobat or Acrobat Reader/Acrobat DC. Option 2: Change a Browser’s Default Viewer The steps to change a browser’s default pdf viewer depend on the operating system, browser and version. Feel free to search the web for more information on this topic. Chrome Make sure Adobe Acrobat or Acrobat Reader/Acrobat DC is on your computer. Open the menu - icon with 3 vertical dots on top right of page Select Settings > select Advanced Under Privacy, select Content Settings Scroll to PDF documentsNote: Steps 1-4 can be done by entering chrome://settings/content/pdfDocuments in the url field. Depending on your version of Chrome, Turn off Open PDFs using a different application, or Open PDF files in the default PDF viewer application. Firefox Make sure Adobe Acrobat or Acrobat Reader/Acrobat DC is on your computer. Open Firefox’s menu- icon with 3 horizontal lines on top right of page Select Options - little gear icon Scroll down to Applications and select Portable Document Format (PDF) Change the Action, from preview in Firefox to use Adobe Acrobat or Acrobat Reader/Acrobat DC Android iOS To have fillable pdf forms on the iPhone and iPad: Go to the App Store and get Adobe Fill and Sign (free, by Adobe) Run Adobe Fill & Sign. Select Web url and paste in the pdf’s url. Cannot save PDF files after editing? Well, yes, that can be frustrating. Don’t worry. We’ve got you covered. If you see the following message being displayed on the screen, you may not be able to save your PDF file right after editing it: “The document could not be saved. The file may be read-only or another user may have been using it. An error was encountered when saving the document”. PDF (Portable Document Format) is one of the most concrete and reliable document formats that keep the content and formatting of the file intact, no matter on which device you access the file. When mentioning PDF, Adobe Reader becomes our go-to pick for managing or editing the document. Isn’t it? Image source: Adobe Handling PDF files on Windows is not as tricky as you think. This issue may get triggered due to a variety of reasons: Using an outdated version of Adobe Acrobat Reader. Misconfigured storage settings. Restricted admin rights to modify the file. Feel free to check out the website: However, if you don’t want to use an alternate tool, don’t worry. In this post, we’ve listed a few simple solutions that you can use to fix the “Can’t save PDF files” issue on Windows devices. Let’s get started. How To Fix Cannot Save PDF Files After Editing #1 Update Adobe Acrobat Reader Using an outdated version of Adobe Reader can lead to several issues that may not allow you to save your PDF file on Windows. To make sure that you don’t run into any kind of errors or trouble while using PDF on any device, download the latest version of the Adobe Acrobat Reader tool and install it on Windows. Head on to Adobe Acrobat Reader’s official website and then hit on the “Download Acrobat Reader” button to get started. Once the installation process gets completed, reboot your device and then check if you’re still facing similar issues while saving the document. #2 Change the Storage Settings If the storage settings of your device are not compatible with Adobe Reader, here are a few quick changes that you can make to get past the issue. You can enable the “Show online storage when saving files” option so that Adobe offers you a choice to save your documents online. 1. Launch the Adobe Acrobat Reader tool on Windows. 2. Now, open the PDF file that you need to edit and save. Tap on the “Edit” option placed on the top menu bar and then select “Preferences”. 3. In the Preferences window, tap on “General” and then check on the “Show online storage when saving files” option. Hit on the OK button to save the recent changes. 4. After making the above-mentioned change in Adobe’s storage settings, try saving your document again to see if you’re still experiencing issues. #3 Enable Fast Web View on Adobe Reader Tried the above-listed hacks and still cannot save PDF files after editing? Well, here’s another troubleshooting method that you can try. 1. Launch Adobe Reader, click on Edit> Preferences. 2. From the left menu pane, select “Internet” and then check on the “Allow fast web view” option. 3. Hit on the OK button to save changes. Once you enable the Fast Web View option in settings, the webserver will only send the requested page, rather than the entire PDF. #4 Run this Program as Administrator 1. Open File Explorer on Windows and then navigate to this path: C:/Program Files(x86)/Adobe/Acrobat Reader DC/Reader 2. Locate the AcroRd32.exe application from the list, right-click on it and select “Properties”. 3. In the Adobe Acrobat Reader’s properties window, switch to the “Compatibility” tab. 4. Check on the “Run this program as an administrator”. 5. Hit on the OK and Apply buttons to save changes. 6. Launch Adobe Acrobat Reader, open the file that you need to save after editing, and check if you’re still facing the same error. Conclusion Was this post helpful? You can use any of the above-mentioned solutions to fix the “Cannot save PDF files after editing” issue on Windows. And yes, don’t forget to share with us which solution did the trick for you.
